

Presentation of a RAN (Radicalisation awareness network) and a role of a social work in a radicalisation cases

The RAN started in 2011. The European Commission has the task to increase Europe's security, and therefore has an Internal Security Strategy.

There are five strategic objectives part of this strategy, and one of them is to 'Prevent terrorism and address radicalization'.

In order to do this, three actions are defined:

Empower communities to prevent radicalisation and recruitment

Cut off terrorists' access to funding and materials and follow their transactions

Protect transport

RAN's aim is to empower communities to prevent radicalisation and recruitment.

In this presentation RAN will be presented and the role of social workers in radicalisation cases.

RAN website: https://ec.europa.eu/home-affairs/what-we-do/networks/radicalisation_awareness_network_en

Presenter: Sergej Augustin Erdelja, group leader for Health and Social Care Working Group (RAN H&SC)